

Army Civilian Corps Creed

I am an Army Civilian – a member of the Army Team
I am dedicated to our Army, our Soldiers and Civilians
I will always support the mission
I provide stability and continuity during war and peace
I support and defend the Constitution of the United States and consider it an honor to serve our Nation and our Army
I live the Army values of Loyalty, Duty, Respect, Selfless Service, Honor, Integrity, and Personal Courage
I am an Army Civilian

Army Training & Leader Development Model

Identifies important interactions that develop leaders for the future

✓ Three core domains (operational, institutional, and self-development) that shape critical learning experiences throughout a career.

✓ A continuous cycle of counseling, coaching, mentoring, education, assessment, feedback, remediation and reinforcement.

FM 7.0
Training the Force

As leaders progress in their career and face new challenges we must develop them to meet those challenges.

Self-Awareness

Self-development begins with self-awareness

Being aware of oneself, including one's traits, feelings and behaviors

How to become self-aware....

- Open to feedback from multiple sources, including peers, subordinates and superiors
- Obtain coaching and feedback from mentors

Multi-rater assessments and After Action Reviews

Lead with the full awareness of the nature and effects of your decisions.

Self-Development

To master the profession at every level, leaders must make a lifelong commitment to lifelong learning. FM 6-22, Army Leadership

Self-development begins with a motivated person, supplemented by a concerted team

Self-Development ideas

professional reading, writing program, professional conferences, affiliations with professional organizations, advance schooling, and correspondence courses
